About the CPRE Gloucestershire Awards

We are delighted to share this publication; celebrating our Awards scheme's journey, showcasing the outstanding projects that helped us reach the milestone of 100 Awards in 2024.

First established in 2007, the CPRE Gloucestershire Awards recognise and celebrate outstanding projects across Gloucestershire that deliver benefits to both the environment and local communities, setting examples of good practice for others to follow.

Judging: Our panel & process

Nominated projects are evaluated by an independent panel, chaired by Richard Lloyd MBE, who also serves as Vice Chair of our charity, CPRE Gloucestershire.

The independent judging panel currently consists of Anna Ball, David Ball, Kim Bedford, Bill Cronin, James Derounian, Jaqui Taylor and Chris Short.

Nominated projects are judged under four broad categories:

- well considered buildings; new, restored or converted
- innovative use of natural resources, including land and water
- projects developed by or for the local community
- projects responding to the challenge of climate change

Our coverage

Over the past years, we have been honoured to be featured in numerous magazines, online news outlets, and other media platforms showcasing our charity Awards.

We are especially grateful to Cotswold Life for their continued support over the years; we are thrilled that in this milestone year, as we celebrate our 100th Award, our charity will once again be highlighted in their publication.

Our partners

Over the past 17 years, we've been fortunate to receive generous support from many organisations, helping us reach the significant milestone of 100 Awards.

In this special year, we are particularly grateful to partner again with Loxley Solicitors:

“Loxley Solicitors are specialist agricultural solicitors providing advice across England and Wales. We are delighted to be supporting CPRE Gloucestershire again this year.”

A heartfelt thank you also to Anselm and the team at Elmore Court for generously hosting our 2024 Ceremony, providing a wonderful setting to celebrate this milestone.
